FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

FRIDAY, Feb. 27-6 P. M. The financial measures of Congress invest Mr. Chase with more power than was ever before confided to any finance minister in any country. He is empowered to sell, at any price he pleases, $900,000,000 of bonds, to run as many years as he pleases, but not less than ten nor more than forty, and to bear any rate of interest he pleases, but not over six per cent. Next, he is authorized to issue $400,000,000 of Treasury notes, to run as long as he pleases, bu not more than three years, to bear any rate of in-terest he pleases, under six per cent, and to be a legal tender, if he so declares them, or, if he pre-fers, to be merely interchangeable for legal tender notes on presentation. Finally, he is allowed-if he deems it necessary-to issue $150,000,000 more legal tender notes in the ordinary form, including the $100,000,000 lately authorized by joint resolu tion. These powers are as large as could be desired, and wholly relieve Congress from responsibility in the event of a failure of the financial administration. It was clear, some time ago, that nothing short of some such wholesale delegation of power as this would have rendered the position of the government safe throughout the recess. The main reliance of the government during the next twelve months must continue to be, as it has been in the past, upon paper issues. Of these Congress has placed $550,000,000 more at the service of the Treasury-a sum so small, in view of the vas expenditures of government, that it will require close economy to make it last till July, 1864. This paper has been divided by Congress into legal tender notes, and notes convertible into legal ten der, and which will become a legal tender them selves whenever the Secretary chooses to say they are. But these distinctions appear to b more fanciful than practical. To be of use to the government all this paper must be, in name an effect, money: money that can be used to pay debts, buy supplies, and make good a bank ac count. If any part of this paper were so presente to the public as not to take the form and shape an not to fill the uses of money, it would fail in its object of defraying the cost of the war. This is well understood at the Treasury De partment; it is well known there that these nev notes will be, in name and effect, money, though the interest on them may, perhaps, in an easy money market, tend to impede their free circula tion. It seems unimportant whether they are made a legal tender or merely interchangeable for legal tender on demand.

Of the $300,000,000 long bonds authorized, the Secretary will be able to sell a good many with judicious management. He might have sold more if Congress had retained the House amendment to the Sub-Treasury act, allowing him to keep accounts in solvent banks. Under the present arrangement no loan could be negotiated at present, simply because legal tender notes the only currency receivable by government are too scarce to make it safe for any bank or banker to scarce to make it safe for any bank or banker to bid for a million of bonds. But if, after issuing fifty or sixty millions of new notes, the Secretary then came into the market, either publicly or privately, with a parcel of bonds, they could be footback, which is a parcel of bonds, they could be footback, which is a parcel of bonds, they could be footback, which is a parcel of bonds, they could be footback, which is a parcel of bonds, they could be footback, which is a parcel of bonds, they could be footback, which is a parcel of bonds, they could be footback, as a parcel of bonds, they could be footback, as a parcel of bonds, they could be footback, as a parcel of bonds, they could be footback, as a parcel of bonds, they could be footback, as a parcel of bonds, they could be footback, as a parcel of bonds, they could be footback as a parcel of bonds. The parcel of bonds is a parcel of bonds are provided by the parcel of bonds are provided by the parcel of bonds. The parcel of bonds are provided by the parcel of bonds are provided by the parcel of bonds are provided by the parcel of bonds. The parcel of bonds are provided by the parcel of bonds are provided by the parcel of bonds are parcel of bonds. The parcel of bonds are parcel of bonds are parcel of bonds are parcel of bonds are parcel of bonds. The parcel of bonds are parcel of bonds are successes. By a ternating between issues of pa-per and accordance of bonds, and by conduct-ing his department wisely and discreetly, in riew of the interests of government, and not in view of the speculations of Wall street or the premium on gold, the Sceretary may, in the course of the year, manage to dispose of a good many bonds. But to do this there must be no more such bonds. But to do this there must be no more such needless panies created as was caused by the last thirteen million loan. The good will of the banks and bankers is indispensable to negotiations.

Such, in a few words, is the financial programme for the year. That it will involve a great and unparalleled expenses of the second of the sec paralleled expansion of credit and inflation of prices is too clear to need demonstration. These are the inevitable drawbacks of all great wars, and it is equally idle to complain of or to try to prevent them. The following table will show the amount of currency which we are going to have:- the Treasury notes. As the total amount of paper money affort in the whole country before the war was about $216,000,-000, it does not need much experience to perceive what must be the effect even of a prospective increase of paper issues to $1,367,002,000; and one cannot but feel amused at the simplicity of bankers who talk about this new plan ranking money dear, who talk about this new pian ranking money dear, or of legislators who recommended it to Congress on the ground of its conservation and its tendency to check the pending inflation. History will probably decide that, under the circumstances, this was the best practicable francial scheme, and that Congress had no choice the severe gress had no choice but to adopt it, as the Secretary will have no choice but to carry it into effect. But a very few weeks will probably demonstrate the utter absurdity of the notion, which has been ventilated in Congress and in the newspaper organs by some of our bankers and financiers, that it is calculated to check expansion, or that it can do anything else than inflate, to an enormous extent,

Money was quite easy to-day at 6 per cent. The scarcity of mercantile paper is embarrassing the banks, and they are very glad to lend on stocks at edness are strong.

Gold was less mercurial to-day. It fluctuated between 170% and 171%, closing 171% bid. Exchange was quoted at 187 a 188, few bankers being willing to draw below the latter rate. We hear of a sale of a leading banker's bill at 110%

there was not much change in prices. Operators seemed to be studying the Financial bill, and not to understand its working thoroughly Governments were higher. The registered 6's rose ¼, the 5's of 1874 ¾ per cent, and 7.30 notes ⅙. On the general list Pacific Mail rose 3 per cent on the announcement of a British opposition, which is laughed at here; Hudson rose 1/4. On the other hand, Eric fell off 1/2 per cent. There is a large short interest in Eric, and the bears hammer it with vigor, though the earnings continue to increase at a prodigious rate. The road is earning all its interest charges in three months of the year. Cleveland and Pittsburg fell off 1/4 on rumors of the chance of a rejection by the committee of the new conselidation scheme. It is not believed in well informed quarters that anything of the kind will be the result. The main obstacle in the way of a final settlement is the disappointment of in-dividuals whose importance will be diminished by the consolidation. . This will not long stand in the way of an arrangement equally advantageous to both roads. At the one P. M. session of the pubof consequence. At the afternoon sessions of the boards the market was rather dull. Many leading operators were free sellers on sellers options, and the bulls did not seem unwilling that they should
